

EDITOR-IN-CHIEF, JOURNAL OF EMERGENCY NURSING

Position Title: Editor-in-Chief, Journal of Emergency Nursing (JEN)
Employment Status: Contracted Position
Reporting Relationships: ENA Board of Directors

Oversees: Associate Editors and Section Editors
Managing Editor

Chairs: Editorial Board

Initial Commitment: Two-year contract with option to renew

GENERAL SUMMARY

The Editor-in-Chief (EIC) is responsible for the quality and professionalism of editorial content in the Journal of Emergency Nursing (JEN), the official scholarly journal of the Emergency Nurses Association. This position works collaboratively with the Journal publisher, ENA and contracted editorial staff, to ensure the timely and efficient production of JEN.

RESPONSIBILITIES AND EXPECTATIONS

1. Under guidance from the board of directors, sets and enforces the editorial tone of JEN; ensures authors, reviewers and editorial board members meet the highest level of editorial excellence and ethical standards.
2. Ensures the content of JEN aligns with ENA's mission, vision, values, and strategic plan.
3. Works collaboratively with ENA's board of directors, editorial board, staff and publishing staff to ensure contractual commitments are met.
4. Fosters creative input from authors, section editors and ENA committees and boards.
5. Oversees the reviews of submitted manuscripts and works with the editorial board to guide authors during the revision process, including manuscript disposition.
6. Leads and directs the JEN editorial board; conducts annual editorial board meetings and interim conference calls. Seeks input from the editorial board in matters of editorial policy and direction.
7. Reviews peer publications to ensure JEN is current and competitive.
8. Monitors and communicates trends and significant issues concerning the Journal to the ENA board of directors, chief executive officer, editorial board and publisher. Provides written and verbal reports to the board as requested. This includes attendance at conferences and board meetings as needed.
9. Resolves ethical and legal issues regarding difficult situations (e.g., plagiarism and other ethical violations).
10. Leads the work of others, ensuring collaboration and accountability and engages members of the association to contribute to the common goal of improving the care of emergency patients and promoting the specialty of emergency nursing.
11. Develops and implements a journal strategy that includes increasing JEN's measured impact in the field, digital strategy and engagement, readership and overall presence.

QUALIFICATIONS

- Comprehensive knowledge of emergency nursing practice
- Experience in publishing and editing for clinical or research, peer-reviewed journals, with a preference for nursing journal experience.
- Demonstrated understanding of sound methodology and research.
- History of published research and/or evidence-based practice articles.
- Effective written and oral communication skills appropriate for developing rigorous, high-quality content, communicating with authors and public speaking on behalf of the Journal.
- Experience leading collaborative teams
- Commitment to offer at least half-time to this position (approximately 80 hours a month)
- Advanced degree required; doctoral degree preferred

APPLICATION REQUIREMENTS

- Curriculum Vitae with detailed cover letter highlighting relevant experience as defined in the criteria
- Vision statement for the future of the Journal
- Editorial (use current editorial guidelines)

SEARCH DETAILS

This search is being conducted by the ENA JEN Editor Search Committee and the ENA Board of Directors. The search committee will review submissions, conduct virtual interviews and (at least with finalists) in person interviews and make a final recommendation to the ENA Board. All submissions must be received by noon on Friday, June 10, 2022.

Additional materials and relevant requests for writing samples and oral presentations may be required for the final candidate interviews in August 2022, with an expectation of a start date in November 2022.

Questions and correspondence should be addressed to:

Chair, JEN Editor Search Committee

executiveoffice@ena.org

930 E. Woodfield Road

Schaumburg, IL 60173

847-460-4000

Equal Opportunity Employer M/F/D/V